The changing distance separating the Moon and Earth also affects tide heights. When the Moon is closest, at perigee, the range increases, and when it is at apogee, the range shrinks. Every 7 1/2 lunations (the full cycles from full moon to new to full), perigee coincides with either a new or full moon causing perigean spring tides with the largest tidal range.

Red tide is a common name for algae blooms, which are large concentrations of aquatic microorganisms (protozoans or unicellular algae such as dinoflagellates and diatoms). The upwelling of nutrients from the sea floor, often following massive storms, provides for the algae and triggers bloom events. Harmful algal blooms can occur worldwide, and natural cycles can vary regionally.

ONLINE COVER To determine how North Africa's climate has evolved over the past millions of years, experts have studied dust flux records from marine sediments. These long-term records are based largely on fluxes calculated using age model-based mass accumulation rates (MARs). However, this method suffers from many potential biases, including limited resolution.
